

Citizant Hires Paul Bize as Sr. VP of Sales and Marketing

Former HP/EDS homeland security and intelligence executive to help government customers tackle information sharing and cybersecurity challenges

CHANTILLY, Va., Sept. 14, 2010 — Citizant, a leader in business transformation services for the federal government, has hired Paul Bize as senior vice president of sales and marketing. Bize is responsible for driving revenue growth and strategic mission focus in national security, law enforcement and intelligence.

Bize was previously head of the Security and Intelligence sales organization for HP Enterprise Services, formerly EDS, in Herndon, Va., where he was directly responsible for delivering more than $2 billion in new sales during his last 10 years with the company.

“Because of his past experience with HP and EDS, Paul is keenly aware of the toughest mission challenges facing our national security and intelligence agencies,” said Raymond Roberts, CEO of Citizant. “Leaders in these government organizations now have to jump unprecedented hurdles in cybersecurity and information sharing as they seek to protect our citizens and our national interests. Paul’s expertise in and knowledge of these issues, as well as his intuitive understanding of how to craft effective partnerships and communicate Citizant’s solutions, will create significant and unique value for our federal customers.”

Throughout Bize’s 22-year career with EDS, he advanced steadily into program management and senior business development roles by developing deep knowledge of federal customers and full sales life-cycle strategies. He supported programs in the departments of Homeland Security, Justice, State, Housing and Urban Development, Interior, Education, and Transportation, and in many Intelligence agencies.

“I’ve had the tremendous good fortune to work with some of our government’s top leaders to address their toughest mission challenges,” said Bize. “Citizant has a strong commitment to quality, a track record of successful delivery, the willingness to invest in a better future, and a shared focus on the national security and Intelligence communities. I look forward to working with this outstanding team of professionals to strengthen and expand Citizant’s relationships throughout industry and government.”

Bize attended George Mason University in Fairfax, Va., where he received a bachelor’s degree in communications. He completed graduate and professional coursework through EDS University and the Thunderbird School of Business.
